Welcome!

Usually in soap, you feel sorry for characters when they make some huge, horrible mistake. You understand their motivation, and you can sympathise with them as they face the terrible consequences of their actions. But at other times, you just want to grab them by the shoulders, look them straight in the eye and scream: "Did you really think that this wasn't how this was going to end, you total imbecile! Have you never even seen a soap?!"

"Really, what was Toyah thinking?!"

Well, today we'd like to say hello to Toyah

Battersby! Really, what was she thinking?! This baby situation was a tram crash waiting to happen. But sometimes the fun comes from waiting for that tram to crash, and enjoying all the fallout that comes with it! The episodes where Peter found out what Toyah had done were classic Corrie, and worth all the energy we'd exuded shouting at our tellies over the course of this year. (Toyah's still a right idiot, though!)

HOTTEST headlines...

Flora's life is left on the line this week, after Simon's lowlife sidekick Tyler breaks into the corner shop flat and attacks her!

The heartless teens are trying to steal £250k, which Flora has inherited from her son Vinny. But when she returns home early from the Bistro to find the boys turning the place upside down, there are violent consequences.

CASHING IN!

The horrific scenes unfold after news of Flora's windfall spreads around the Street – and soon more than one resident's interest is piqued.

"It's Adam who looks into Vinny's estate, and finds that he's left Flora all this money," reveals star Rob Mallard, who plays Daniel. "It's the most money Daniel or Sinead have ever been close to, and they're pleased she'll finally be able to afford a decent place to live.

"But while Daniel's glad that he'll now have his flat to himself, he's equally protective of Flora. Which is why he's not impressed when he finds out Tracy's trying to get her hands on Flora's cash..."

Daniel invites the locals to Vinny's funeral – to make Flora think her son was well-liked – and Tracy soon cottons on to how much money the old lady has inherited. She lies to Flora that 'Harvey' (Vinny's real name) was her best friend – so perhaps Flora might fancy investing in the florist? Unsurprisingly, Daniel's raging when he finds out...

Thieving Simon and Tyler get ready to escape with their loot – but they're interrupted by Flora!

The police have one of the guilty pair in custody

"It's typical Tracy!" tuts Rob. "However, having spent time with Flora over the past few months, Daniel knows she's more than capable of facing off against her. But he does find a way of getting back at Tracy – by telling her that her boyfriend Steve kissed Michelle!"

MOVING ON...

Flora announces that she'll soon be moving out of Daniel's flat – allowing his girlfriend Sinead to finally move in – and organises a 1950s-themed bash at the Bistro to celebrate her unexpected windfall. But the revelries soon turn to horror!

As the merry pensioner sets about organising her big party, cunning Tyler is giving Simon the third degree about his elderly neighbour. Soon the wicked pair are cooking up a scheme to break into Daniel's flat and help themselves to Flora's inheritance – but their plot goes horribly wrong when Flora comes home unexpectedly. Tyler whacks her over the head with her own jewellery box, and makes his shameful escape alone. Thankfully, it's not long before Daniel turns up – but what's become of Simon?

"Flora goes back to the flat to get something," explains Rob. "She's gone quite a while, so Daniel goes to check on her, and finds her semi-conscious on the floor. He's really worried!"

It's a huge relief when Flora comes round later – but not for Simon. Flora reveals that the lad who knocked her out did a runner, and names Simon as his accomplice – so he ends up getting arrested for burglary!

"Daniel finds Flora semi-conscious on the floor!"

Will you marry me?

THERE'S YET ANOTHER PROPOSAL, BUT THIS ONE ISN'T INTENTIONAL...

Tracy's malevolent manipulation of Flora has disastrous consequences for Steve this week, when he accidentally asks his former wife to marry him again!

Steve is landed right in it after Daniel gets back at Tracy for her attempted conning of Flora by blowing the fact that her other half made a move on Michelle on her wedding day.

"Daniel sinks to Tracy's level in getting his own back like this," admits star Rob Mallard, who plays Daniel. "He's managed to keep a lid on his temper recently – but it's mostly in his interactions with Tracy that we see it starting to come out again!"

Outraged to discover that Steve's been trying it on with another of his countless exes, glum Tracy is left to assume that Steve doesn't care about her after all, and has only got back together with her to keep their wayward daughter Amy happy. So imagine Tracy's delight when hapless Steve somehow manages to propose to her – even though he doesn't actually mean to...

"Daniel is left feeling quite petulant when he finds out that Steve has proposed to Tracy just as he's asked Sinead to marry him," chuckles Rob. "The family is trying to be all diplomatic about it – but Daniel just wants them to see Steve's proposal as a sham, while his is the real deal!"

Is Daniel about to burst Tracy's bubble all over again – or will she be far too busy planning her latest wedding day with Steve to notice her new fiancé's awkward predicament?

Allison Jones

However, there's a happier ending in store for Daniel...

SHACKING UP!

As relieved and grateful Flora thanks Daniel, she hands him her mother's engagement ring – and insists that he use it to propose to Sinead!

"Flora orchestrates the whole thing by passing on this family heirloom," shares Rob. "But Daniel's reluctant at first, as he fears Sinead will say no. When he first asked her to move in, she said it was too soon, which knocked his confidence. I think he'd have proposed sooner, had it not been for that. He doesn't want to lose what he's got again."

"A proposal has always been on his mind, though – he's just been waiting for the right time to do it. So Flora gives him a firm push in the right direction!"

As Daniel finally gets down on one knee, will Flora witness the happy ending she desires?

The Slaters take on Jean's hubby!

WHEN JEAN CONFESSES THAT OLLIE HURT HER, THE FAMILY INTERVENES...

The Slaters band together this week, when Jean lets slip that she can't go back to husband Ollie – because he hurt her!

The revelation comes as Kat returns to Walford after a month away – and she can't believe what she finds. Upon her arrival back on the Square, Kat is stunned to see that her dad's old black cab is parked outside. But her shock turns to anger when she finds out that Jean, Mo, Stacey and Hayley are planning to keep the vehicle for 'sentimental reasons'.

"Kat and the whole family are in dire need of cash, so she can't see why they wouldn't want to make the most of this bit of good fortune," says our Walford insider. "She's keen to pay back the money they owe Jean, so she can return to Ollie in Brighton. However, when Kat mentions Ollie, it's clear that Jean isn't at all happy to hear her hubby's name."

Kat demands they decide the matter with a show of hands – but with the score tied at two apiece, it comes down to Jean to settle it with the casting vote. Jean tries to dodge the responsibility, though, and certainly doesn't appear keen on a return to Brighton. What's she hiding?

"Kat's on to Jean like a shot," explains our mole. "It's clear as day that something bad has happened, and Kat won't rest until she finds out what it is! When she and Jean are alone, Kat interrogates her relative, who eventually cracks and admits that she's avoiding going back to her husband because he hurt her! It's an astonishing revelation, as Ollie seemed Ollie seemed like the perfect gentleman – how could he do this?"

Jean is stunned by the conclusion her family has leapt to fella exactly what they think of him!" gasps our sneak. "As far as they're concerned, this is beyond the pale. Ollie seems taken aback, and desperately attempts to explain what really happened – the two women are in full-on attack mode, though, and he can't get a word in sideways!"

The situation spirals out of control, as Jean is shocked when she finds out what her well-meaning relatives have done, and she tries to defend her husband. Is it because Ollie is manipulating her, or has the whole thing been an awful misunderstanding?

Tom Spilsbury

It appears that Kat and Mo aren't the only ones pointing fingers, as Ollie has his say like the perfect gentleman! He and Jean always gave the impression of being happy together. How could he do such a thing?"

A little later, Kat confides in Mo that Ollie has been hitting Jean, but tells her nan that she has a plan. She explains how she's been in touch with Ollie and invited him round for lunch at the weekend, so she can get to the bottom of things.

However, Mo and Kat receive a massive shock when Ollie turns up there and then at the front door of No 31!

"Kat and Mo are momentarily thrown by Ollie's sudden arrival – though once the pair have composed themselves, they waste no time in telling the

MEAN JEAN!

Does Jean have a vicious side?

While Kat and Mo are quick to take Jean's side against Ollie, could it be that Jean is actually the one who has something shameful to hide?

"I'm very keen to keep the writers in check, to ensure that the dark side of Jean is still present, and could come through," actress Gillian Wright – who plays Jean – said in March, as the Slater family reassembled on Albert Square.

Remember that when we first met Jean way back in 2004, she was far from the adorable scatterbrain that we have since got to know and love.

"Jean was vicious to Stacey in those early episodes – nasty!" Gillian was keen to remind us. "She's a character who can turn on a sixpence. You never know what to expect from her..."

Jai confronts killer Lachlan!

THE NET IS CLOSING IN ON THE MURDEROUS LAD...

There's terror for Lachlan this week when Jai violently confronts him – is Belle about to discover Lachy's terrifying secret?

Lachlan made a big mistake recently after he involved drunken Priya in his latest murder attempt. He thought she was out for the count when he tailed Freddy in his car and prepared to bludgeon the oblivious investor with a rock. But it looks as if Priya saw enough to be scared of Lachlan, and now Jai is hopping mad.

"This is a nightmare scenario for Lachlan – how will he explain his way out of this one?" muses our Dales spy. "Priya was drunk, but she's not stupid, and she saw enough of his darkness to be frightened of what he's capable of. Freddy lived to see another day, but Jai isn't willing to let this go. He's furious that Lachlan would terrify his sister like this – and he wants answers!"

Lachlan and Belle are at the Dingle homestead when the row breaks out. Jai and Rishi march in and demand to know why Lachlan behaved like that, and why he scared Priya so badly. Scrambling to cover his tracks, Lachlan tries to tell them that she has the wrong end of the stick, but the seeds of doubt are sown. Will Belle realise she's getting in too deep with a dangerous man?

"Belle wants it to work between her and Lachlan, and she's even decided to turn down Freddy's job offer to stay close to him," explains our insider. "Lachlan is relieved to hear it, and to find out Freddy won't be investing either. It may mean big trouble for the Whingles brand, but having Belle beside him is everything that Lachlan wants and needs. She just has to convince him that he must let go of his jealousy and give their love a chance."

It looks as though Lachlan has scraped through the Sharma row and managed to keep Belle on side, but somebody is on to him.

Belle wants it to work between Lachlan and her, so he's relieved Priya has been rattled by what she saw – which is what exactly?

He's spooked when he gets an anonymous threatening text from somebody who clearly knows that he has something to hide. Worse still, Lachlan's phone buzzes with another malevolent message the next day, and it seems as if his mysterious stalker won't be letting up any time soon.

So far, the only people with any idea of what Lachlan has become are Gerry's fake uncle Terry, and Rebecca, who has lost her memory and can't seem to access the terrible truth.

Have either of them decided to wage a mysterious campaign of terror against Lachlan, or will he find the source of these messages in a surprising place?

WICKED SIMON IS RESPONSIBLE...

There's danger for Cain this week, after drug dealer Simon attacks him out of the blue.

The hard-man mechanic is in the garage when Simon sneaks up behind him and cracks him over the head with a baseball bat – leaving Cain helpless as Simon raises the weapon to hit him again. Why is he targeting Cain, and why is he back?

Simon was last seen legging it, after Joe paid him to vanish. Joe was protecting Debbie, but it was all in vain – Ross now knows that it was Simon who threw acid in his face, and that Debbie ordered the assault. Plus, Ross has worked hard to track down Simon via gang boss Connor – and that's caused no end of trouble, too.

With Simon having scarred Ross for life, you'd be forgiven for thinking that he would never return to the village, let alone attack its most feared resident. And given his terrible history with Cain's family – particularly the fact that he was the one to sell heroin to tragic Holly Barton – Simon has plenty to answer for!

Nonetheless, it's Cain who's left bloodied and injured in the garage, as the unhinged lad takes a nasty revenge. In his vulnerable state, Cain is in real danger with the baseball bat-wielding lad on the loose, and nobody is around to save him from Simon's fury.

Can Cain escape, or will Simon claim another victim?

SCANDAL FOR SALLY!

Why is hubby Tim brawling in the street?

The Mayor of Weatherfield will soon be embroiled in a major scandal, if these dramatic snaps are anything to go by!

Corrie stars Sally Dynevor (Sally) and Joe Duttine (Tim) have been spotted filming scenes which show Tim lashing out and punching newcomer Duncan! With rumours hinting that Sally's future as mayor will be under threat after she falls foul of a con artist, could Duncan turn out to be the rotter in question?

"We all know how seriously Sally takes her role as mayor – so imagine how humiliated she will be once she realises she's been taken in by a complete shyster!" gasps our Corrie insider. "She prides herself on being a respected pillar of the community, so if her reputation is brought into disrepute, she'll never be able to show her face on the cobbles again!"

Viewers will recall that Duncan – father of Rosie's model pal Olivia – recently turned up looking for a big favour from Sally. So what could have happened since to cause laid-back Tim to lose his rag and smash Duncan's face in?

"Duncan asked Sally to help him with his application for a charity grant," our mole reminds us. "Sally was flattered into offering up her services, even though the deadline for the application had already passed! But could Duncan have an ulterior motive for buttering up the mayor?"

We definitely thought there was something fishy about 'Hunky Dunky' – as Tim called him – and we wouldn't be surprised if he has brought big trouble to the Metcalfes' door!

Viewers can find out what sneaky Duncan is really up to when these scenes air later in the summer.

HAIRDRESSERS AT WAR!

Audrey's nemesis Claudia wants her star stylist...

Ambitious Maria could be about to stab boss Audrey in the back – by going into partnership with a rival hairdresser!

Maria has been giving her future some serious thought, and recently suggested to Audrey that she wants to be a bigger part of the business. Audrey pooh-poohed the idea, but could her dismissiveness end up costing her dearly as Claudia – played by Rula Lenska – makes Maria an offer she can't refuse?

"Maria thinks it's high time her hard work was recognised and appreciated," reckons Samia Longchambon, who plays her. "She asks if she can buy into the salon. But Audrey won't entertain the idea, and wants to keep it in the family."

It's after cobbles minx Tracy slyly suggests Maria should set up her own business in her flat, and charge less than Audrey, that Maria's given food for thought. Before long, her pals are queuing up for her services – but it's when Audrey's old rival Claudia catches wind of what's happening that things really start to get interesting...

Claudia is keen to poach Maria for her own salon – but how will Audrey react when she realises she's been betrayed?

CORONATION STREET

NICOLA BOWS OUT!

Corrie star Nicola Thorp made a shock exit from the soap last week, after her character Nicola left for Bristol with baby son Zack.

The actress immediately took to Twitter to confirm that it was her final episode, and to thank her colleagues for her memorable time on the show.

"Thanks to the cast and crew and everyone at Coronation Street for making the cobbles feel like home this past year," she tweeted. "I'm lucky to call you my friends. Thanks to the audience and fans for all the love and support. From this Nicola (and the other one) see you later, Weatherfield."

Nicola first arrived on the Street last June – and what a turbulent 12 months it's been! She found out she was Pat Phelan's daughter, before learning that he was a serial killer – not to mention the fact that she got knocked up by her dad's arch-nemesis Gary Windass!

It's been quite the ride for actress Nicola too, who's recently spoken out about the objectification of women on the red carpet. And if rumours are to be believed, she's bagged herself a new boyfriend in the shape of gorgeous co-star Charlie De Melo (Imran)!

While a Corrie spokesperson confirmed that Nicola has indeed left the show, what about Eileen, who departed the cobbles with her?

"The door has been left open for both Nicola and Eileen – although Eileen perhaps has more reason to return," remarks our source. "The Street has been her home for 18 years, and leaving that history behind is definitely going to be tough for her. But viewers will have to wait and see if this really is the last we'll see of her..."

In real life, Nicola has been dating co-star Charlie

Nicola might have left, but we may well see Eileen again

HOLLYOAKS ON HOLIDAY!

The McQueens go mad in Majorca...

HOLLYOAKS

Grab your swimsuits and slap on the factor 50 – this summer Hollyoaks is going to Magaluf!

Stars from the soap recently flew out to the sun-drenched island of Majorca in Spain to shoot a special storyline, revolving around the McQueen family. And it's been confirmed that the explosive episodes will feature the return of Mercedes, following actress Jennifer Metcalfe's maternity leave...

"If you thought last year's Ibiza episodes were saucy, you ain't seen nothing yet!" teases our Hollyoaks spy. "Wherever the McQueens go, trouble follows – and when the likes of Goldie and Mercedes are involved, you can guarantee there's going to be some serious shenanigans going on!"

There could be some surprises in store, too. Hollyoaks posted a snap of the cast at the airport, ready to jet off – but who could be the mysterious faces lurking behind those question marks? We already know that Mercy's ex-hubby, Russ Owen, is due to return too, so could the pair be in for an unexpected reunion on the party island?

"The last time we saw Mercedes, she was heading to the States to reconnect with her son, Bobby," our mole reminds us. "We hoped she'd be returning with the little lad in tow – although a holiday with the McQueens in Magaluf is really no place for a six-year-old! It's much more likely that Mercedes has got herself into some mischief while she's been away, and needs her family's help to get her out of trouble."

Whatever the story, we can promise you these episodes will be scorching hot! Viewers can watch the drama unfold on screen in August.

Soap SPY...

Bloomin' lovely!

Emmerdale star Emma Atkins was inundated with pressies from fans following the flashback episode to Charity's teenage years. Emma looked delighted as she posed with these beautiful rainbow flowers – although it fell to her co-star Charley Webb (Debbie) to tweet a thank you on her behalf, as Emma is notoriously social-media shy!

New role

Former Neighbours star Olympia Valance (Paige) has landed a role in new Aussie football drama Playing For Keeps. She'll appear as Tahlia, the fiancée of the team's captain, Connor – who's played by ex-Home and Away actor Jackson Gallagher (Josh Barrett).

Milo has a date!

BUT CAN BRODY HELP THE HAPLESS FELLA TO IMPRESS LIBERTY?

Will Liberty give Milo the thumbs up?

Milo enlists Brody's help to woo Liberty this week – but there are disastrous consequences!

When Brody spots clueless Milo making a fool out of himself in front of Dirk's daughter, he encourages his pal to just ask out Liberty on a date. Yet after inadvertently inviting Cindy and Dirk along too, it's clear that Milo needs some serious help...

"Bless Milo, he's never had a girlfriend!" explains Nathan Morris, who plays him. "He's socially awkward – and romantically, he's just useless! Liberty is so exotic to him, she's so bubbly and bright, and I don't think he's ever met anyone quite like her. He's instantly smitten, but he doesn't think that he stands a chance with her."

"Milo knows he needs to seek help, which is why he turns to Brody," adds the star. "He knows that no woman in Hollyoaks is safe from this ladies' man!"

Brody is only too happy to step in and offer his expertise, and agrees to feed lines to Milo through an earpiece during his hot date!

Needless to say, things don't quite run smoothly...

"When does it ever go to plan for Milo?"

muses Nathan. "That was such a funny scene to film, because the director allowed us a bit of freedom. I really wanted to play on the fact that Milo would be so awkward and bumbling, and would say the wrong things. I haven't seen the finished version yet, but the crew were laughing their heads off. Milo and Liberty are a match made in comedy heaven!"

Whether Liberty falls for Milo's questionable charms remains to be seen. However, Nathan reckons he and co-star Jessamy Stoddart (Liberty) are rooting for their characters to make a go of things.

"Jessamy has been lovely to work with, we've had so much fun together," grins the actor. "Even we were saying, 'Oh, we hope that it works out between them because they're so lovely together'. They actually complement each other because they're both completely bonkers!"

"Milo and Liberty are completely bonkers!"

We're keeping our fingers crossed that Milo's plot to enlist Brody doesn't backfire on him spectacularly. And Nathan has a few words of advice of his own for his bumbling alter ego.

"I'm not exactly a Romeo myself, but I would tell Milo to relax," he shares. "I think the reason he gets himself into so much trouble is because he lacks self-belief – I guess it comes from being treated badly by his family and being bullied. He doesn't believe anybody would want to be his friend or girlfriend.

"I would tell him to believe in himself, because he is a good person deep down. He would be a nice boyfriend – he just needs to chill out a bit!"

Brody agrees to help the kooky villager find love

TROUBLE AHEAD!

There's big drama in store for Milo...

When we speak to Nathan, he's calling us from a location shoot, where he's involved in filming an upcoming stunt for the soap. And while the actor isn't allowed to reveal the exact nature of what happens, he does hint that it has something to do with Milo's huge secret...

"I can't say whether Milo's secret will come out, but the stunt is related to his past," teases Nathan. "It's exciting – I love the stunts the show does, they're fantastic. It's hard work to film, but the end product is worth it. There are some big moments coming up for Milo!"

Beth goes undie-cover!

SHE BETRAYS BOSS ALYA AS CARLA UNLEASHES HER SCHEME TO RECLAIM THE KNICKER FACTORY...

Carla lets in Johnny on her crafty idea

Cunning Carla sets out to sabotage Alya at Underworld this week – recruiting machinist Beth as her mole.

Determined to get the factory back in the hands of the Connor family, Carla rolls up her sleeves and starts fighting dirty. She knows that Alya's inexperience and lack of support could be her downfall, and she intends to help her fail faster. But to start meddling in the business again, Carla needs an ally on the inside...

"Beth Tinker would be no one's first choice for undercover work," laughs our Corrie sneak. "She's gobby, hot-tempered and the opposite of subtle. However, she is money-hungry and easy to bribe, and that's what Carla needs right now."

Carla can't risk seeking help from someone who'll have a conscience and turn on her, so that rules out people like Fiz, Izzy and Sally. But Beth is struggling for cash and dossing down at Maria's place right now, so she and Kirk need a roof over their heads. For Carla, that makes things simple – she tells Beth that she'll repay her by giving them a rent-free home at Aidan's former flat. It's easy enough to win over Beth and begin Carla's campaign to drive Alya into despair.

The first thing that Beth is tasked with doing is to change the number on an order Alya has accepted from a key client, causing her to make the machinists work overtime to achieve the inflated order, and use up reams of expensive fabric. By getting Kirk to distract Alya's assistant Sarah, Beth has the coast clear to sneak into the office and do what she needs to do.

"It's dastardly stuff, but Carla is fighting for her family's legacy," says our snitch. "Don't "You're cutting it fine for that meeting in Harrogate."

"I'm not going. So you have to get creative with an excuse. I'm thinking something sophisticated yet edgy."

"I haven't used 'base-jumping accident' for a while. How injured do you want to be?"

No one in the world has conversations like Graham and Joe, and we love them for it.

"Big Mo. She's got powers. She knows things. She's like that Nostril Damus."

"You mean Nostradamus."

You can always rely on Honey to get a name wrong, as her friend Back Janning will tell you.

"I'm trying to bury my brother here, and you're buzzing in my ear like an irritating little fly. Now, will you please leave us alone... Or I'll flatten you."

We loved the glimpse of the fire of Carla of old this week. Watch out, Alya!

"You need time to do the food? What? Press a button on a microwave?"

"I'll press a button on you in a minute."

"That sounds a bit weird. Bit pervy."

"Yeah. It didn't quite convey the level of threat I was hoping for, I must admit."

Paddy and Marlon's hopeless banter was a little bit of joy in a bleak Dales week.

Kirk is a reluctant accomplice in Beth's secret mission

With her plan set in motion, Carla tells dad Johnny what she's up to. She reckons it won't take long for Alya to drown under pressure and then they'll be there to swoop in and take it all over again.

But has Carla underestimated her rival's strength of character?

Toadie's baby bombshell!

HAS HE REALLY FATHERED A CHILD WITH ANDREA?

NEIGHBOURS | Channel 5 TUESDAY

The Rebecchi marriage suffers another big blow this week – when Sindi arrives on their doorstep with a baby she claims is Toadie's!

Just as Sonya and Toadie are planning to embark on IVF treatment, Sindi rocks up on Ramsay Street with the earth-shattering news that Toadie has fathered a child with Andrea. So is this little boy Hugo really a product of his one-night stand with the con woman? Or is this just another scam?

"Naturally, Toadie is incredibly sceptical!" reveals Ryan Moloney, who plays him. "The whole reason he and Sonya are going through IVF is because the chances of him fathering a child are pretty slim. And the fact is that both Sindi and Andrea have lied to the Rebecchis before – so it's highly unlikely that this is true."

This bombshell is the last thing Toadie and Sonya need right now. After months of misery at the hands of wicked Andrea, they're happy again – and in a place where they want to add to their family with a little brother or sister for Nell. But this wasn't quite what they had in mind...

"Sonya is shocked by the whole thing – she truly believes they're being taken for a ride again," explains Ryan. "She thinks this is another instance of Andrea trying to take advantage of Toadie. So Toadie is pretty quick to say that he doesn't believe what Sindi's telling them, and that he wants a DNA test."

Despite both Sindi and Willow insisting that Hugo is Toadie's son, there's still no sign Toadie is perplexed – is this his son?

TWO DEE OR NOT TWO DEES?

Andrea will be back on Ramsay Street..

The fact that Hugo has turned up in Erinsborough with no sign of his mum is highly suspicious. We'd put money on seeing Andrea again soon – but could the real Dee still be out there?

"Toadie and Sonya have been trying to track down Andrea to get their money back – so there will be a lot more problems for them when she does resurface," confirms Ryan. "I'm scared of what would happen if the real Dee turns up, though – it's going to be a long time before I can joke around again!"

of Andrea herself. Whatever happens, someone needs to take care of the child – so will Toadie step up to the plate if the little'un turns out to be his?

"Absolutely – Toadie's not one to shirk his responsibilities," reckons Ryan. "It would be incredibly horrible for his relationship with Sonya, this constant reminder that he had an affair – especially when they've worked so hard to move past that. Having a baby around that's not hers would be devastating. But Toadie would never shy away from being a proper dad."

It's been one drama after another for the Rebecchis over the past couple of years. However, while most actors would relish the opportunity to sink their teeth into a meaty plot, Ryan tells us that he just wants a quiet life...

"Who wants to go into work every day and be depressed?" he muses. "I just want to kick back and have a laugh! Luckily, the baby who plays Hugo is so good – in the first scene we shot with him, he looked at me and said 'Dadda' right on cue! I've fallen in love with him."

Bernadette is humiliated by Tiffany!

SHE'S HURT AS HER BEST PAL REVEALS SHE KNOWS BERNIE FANCIES HER...

Bernadette's secret crush on Tiffany is laid bare this week, as well-meaning Tiff lets on that she already knows how Bernie feels!

Things have been awkward between the best mates ever since they shared a kiss during a game of 'spin the bottle' at E20 a few weeks ago. But the awkwardness is about to turn into outright embarrassment...

"For Tiff, their kiss was just a bit of a laugh during a drunken night out, though Bernadette has started to realise that she feels something more intense," suggests our Walford spy. "So far, it's all been left unspoken, and Bernie has been turning it over in her mind. She can't help feeling attracted to Tiff, yet she's terrified of being rejected – or, even worse, laughed at! But Tiff is sharp enough to notice that her friend has seemed distant with her since that night at the club."

To try to make things all right again, Tiffany tells her mate that she'll come round to practise chess with her, so Bernie can perfect her winning moves. Although Bernadette is surprised to find that Tiff has suddenly developed a fascination for pawns, knights and bishops, she keenly accepts her pal's offer.

"Tiff is obviously only pretending to be interested in playing chess, and is using it as an excuse to clear the air," reasons our snitch. "She's far more sensitive than anyone gives her credit for, and thinks that she can reconnect with her friend over something that she knows Bernie enjoys."

"For her part, Bernie just wants to forget about any embarrassment," adds our source. "So you can imagine how crushed she feels when Tiff blurts out that she knows she fancies her! Tiff isn't one for subtlety, and thinks it's far better just to have it all out in the open so they can move on."

Martin comes home!

BUT BEX IS ANNOYED WHEN SHE HEARS HER DAD IS BACK WITH STACEY...

Martin and Stacey are ready to tell the world that their marriage is back on track this week – and what better way to do that than by having him move back into their marital home?

It's been a rocky six months for the couple, ever since Stacey slept with her old flame Max on Christmas Eve. It looked as if their marriage was over, especially once Martin instigated divorce proceedings. However, over the past few weeks, the pair have reconciled, and have made up for lost time by having sex in all manner of risky locations.

"Martin's ex Sonia has been trying to persuade him to keep things low-key, so it won't confuse or upset their daughter Bex," our Albert Square mole reminds us. "But Martin and Stacey can't keep it secret forever! After all, they are married, so Stacey tells him it's about time he came home."

Sonia tries to hide her disappointment, as she's been hoping to rekindle her own romance with Martin. And an almighty row kicks off after Bex hears what's been going on.

"Bex runs into Hayley and Mo, who mention how Martin spent the night with Stacey round at theirs," sighs our mole. "She's annoyed to learn that her dad has been sneaking around, but furious when the pair go on to say that Martin is moving back full-time!"

As fuming Bex confronts her dad, he explains that he was trying to find the right moment to tell her. However, Bex is filled with anger, and flings some cruel words his way. Is their father-daughter relationship irreparably damaged?

Tom Spilsbury

Tiff lays it on the line to Bernie – but her best mate just wants to bury her head in the sand

However, Bernie is still very much in the closet, and feels utterly humiliated. Refusing to acknowledge the situation, the tortured teen yells at Tiffany to get out and leave her alone.

As Bernie is left isolated in her thoughts once more, she tries to work out if she's really a lesbian, or whether it's just Tiff who she feels an attraction to. Deep down she knows that she has to face her friend eventually and tell her how she feels.

But how will Bernadette find the courage to do that when she can't even admit her feelings to herself?

INSIDE SCOOP

Eva's parenting abilities are called into question this week, after Johnny phones social services – and reports her for neglect!

The custody battle for the youngster gets dirty when Johnny hears from Liz that Susie's had an accident. He's furious to hear that Aidan's girl has been put in danger, and wastes no time in calling the professionals as he accuses Eva of being a bad mum...

"Eva turns her back for a split second, and Susie rolls off the sofa – it could happen to anyone," reckons our Weatherfield spy. "Poor Eva is absolutely horrified, and rushes her little girl straight to the medical centre to get her checked out. She does everything by the book, and luckily no serious harm has come to Susie."

CORONATION STREET | ITV TUESDAY

Could Eva lose Susie?

JOHNNY REPORTS HER TO SOCIAL SERVICES...

Eva's stunned when the social worker turns up

Sadly for Eva, Liz happens to be working on reception when she takes Susie in. And given her closeness to Johnny, Liz feels it's her duty to get straight on to him and let him know what's happened!

The fact that little Susie is perfectly fine is of no concern to furious Johnny, who's already lodged an application for custody of his granddaughter. He's made it clear that he'll do whatever it takes to ensure that Susie ends up where he believes she belongs, with the Connors – so Eva's so-called neglect gives him a perfect opportunity to stick the knife in.

Eva's horrified when a social worker rocks up at the Rovers, wanting to ask her questions about what happened that morning with Susie. But will she put two and two together and realise that Johnny was the one who made the call?

"It's so sad that the situation has come to this," sighs our source. "Both Eva and Johnny have Susie's best interests at heart, and the truth is that both sides of the baby's family have so much love to offer her – if only they would work together. But Johnny has launched all-out war on Eva, and there's no going back from this now."

So as Eva finds herself under the microscope following Johnny's rash complaint, is there a very real possibility that her daughter could be taken away from her?

SHE ASKS CRAIG TO BE HER BOYFRIEND – BUT HE HAS NO IDEA WHO SHE REALLY IS...

Craig falls deeper under Kayla's spell this week – oblivious to the fact that she is wicked ex-copper Neil Clifton's daughter!

Since turning up on the cobbles, waitress Kayla has been reeling in Craig and his ex, Bethany, hoping to exact revenge on them for getting her dad sent down. But when her mother Marsha makes an appearance this week, is Kayla's cover set to be blown wide open?

"Kayla is Neil's daughter all right – and she'll go to any lengths necessary to get him released from jail," confides our Corrie insider. "She blames Bethany and Craig for him being behind bars, and with Neil's appeal date fast approaching, she intends to dig up as much dirt on them as possible. Craig is playing right into her hands – so the last thing that she needs is her mum ruining everything!"

When Marsha rocks up at her place of work, Kayla is keen to get rid of her mum before she incriminates her. But Marsha soon recognises Craig as the rookie cop who got Neil jailed, and demands to know what Kayla is doing hanging round with him!

As Kayla explains that she's cosying up to Craig to get information that will help with Neil's appeal, it's clear her mum doesn't approve. But Craig has caught the tail end of their conversation...

Thankfully for Kayla, the only snippet he's heard is that her dad is in jail – and the news prompts him to open up and admit that his own father is serving time at Her Majesty's pleasure, too. Kayla lies to Craig that her dad is inside for fraud – and while they bond over their shared experiences, Kayla takes the opportunity to ask Craig to be her boyfriend!

"Craig has fallen for Kayla's scheming hook, line and sinker," says our spy. "It's a little bit embarrassing for a trainee copper to have been taken in by a phoney like this! Poor Craig, he really does believe that Kayla has genuine feelings for him."

But as Bethany becomes suspicious of Kayla's motives (see p31), will she unmask the fraudster before it's too late?

Has David got the wrong end of the vacuum by hoping for a reunion?

David & Tracy's saucy reunion!

ONE THING LEADS TO ANOTHER AS THE PAIR ARE THROWN TOGETHER AT POLLARD'S...

Shock passion erupts between estranged husband and wife David and Tracy this week – but will their impromptu encounter bring them back together?

The former couple fall into each other's arms again while tussling over a vacuum attachment at Pollard's place. As they collapse into a giggling heap on the sofa, perhaps this intimate moment heralds a new beginning for the pair...

"Grappling with a hoover isn't exactly the most romantic of escapades – but it seems to do the trick for David and Tracy!" chuckles our Dales spy. "They've barely been on speaking terms since David berated Tracy for her sordid past as a prostitute, and then slept with his ex-fiancée Leyla Harding!"

"Poor Tracy was shattered by his mistreatment of her, and their marriage has been left in tatters. So this sexy sofa session comes out of the blue."

Unexpectedly, it's Eric's need for a cleaner which pushes David and Tracy into one another's orbits again.

Since the end of her marriage also meant the end of her job in David's shop, Tracy is keen on offering her father-in-law her housekeeping services. However, when she struggles with a vacuum, David steps in to help out his wife – and soon the pair start snogging.

"Grappling with a hoover isn't exactly romantic..."

"David might have broken Tracy's heart, yet the chemistry between them is obviously still sizzling," says our sneak. "As hapless as ever, David isn't much use when it comes to the hoover, but he manages to work his charms on Tracy! As they find themselves kissing, their troubles evaporate.

"However, their marriage misfortunes can't be forgotten for long," adds our source. "Things have seemed to be over thanks to David's behaviour, and he's been kicking himself ever since – rightly so!"

These two are meant to be cleaning – not getting down and dirty!

After enjoying his quality time with Tracy, David gets his hopes up about starting over – and becomes convinced that that it will happen. But while he's eager to get things moving, it's Tracy with whom the decision ultimately lies.

Can she put the past behind her, and find a way to trust David again? Or is it a case of too little, too late?

a far cry from when Mike Baldwin owned the factory for seemingly decades! I don't see an easy working compromise between Alya and Carla any time soon.

👤 | David, Walsall

There's always been battles for that factory – who knew knickers were so popular?

Maggie's story has inspired Home and Away viewers

A CLOSE SHAVE

What a beautiful portrayal of family unity the Astonis showed recently in Home and Away – when Maggie reluctantly agreed to have her head shaved by her daughter Ziggy, then Ben told her how beautiful she was even though she'd lost her hair. This storyline has prompted me to join a stem-cell donation organisation for people in similar circumstances.

👤 | Dan

What a brilliant idea, Dan! See, soaps really do make a difference in the real world.

NASTY NURSE

Ayesha in Doctors has to be the most miserable, downbeat nurse on television – she is so grumpy and easily angered. I know that she lost her mum through tragic circumstances, but she needs to lighten up!

👤 | Darren

To be fair to Ayesha, she was a moody so-and-so even before her mum Bren died last year!

Moira's friends think she's less Pollock and more pillock

AMAZING MOIRA

The funniest character in soap at the moment has to be Moira Pollock in Corrie. I love the way that she's completely oblivious to the fact that not a single one of her friends can stick her!

👉 | Cassie, Spennymoor

We all know a Moira. (And if not, maybe we are the Moira!)

DEAD & BREAKFAST

I run a bed and breakfast myself, so I'm always amused by the antics at the B&B in Emmerdale.

Frankly, I'm amazed they ever have the energy given the hours we have to work in the hospitality business! Happily, I've never had to deal with a murder in the dining room – though I've thought about it a few times!

👉 | Dean, Scarborough

Sounds fun – we'll definitely come and stay with you next time we go to the seaside, Dean!

BEA ALL AND END ALL

I feel so sorry for poor Bea in Neighbours. Not only is her wicked boyfriend 'Patrick' actually Finn Kelly, and is using her to exact his revenge, but now we find out that she was living on the streets thanks to her sister Elly.

Let's hope Bea and Elly can salvage their relationship after Finn wreaks havoc!

ILLUSTRATION: ROB DAVIS

FOR THE LOVE OF LIZ!

It's taken a long time for Corrie's Johnny to surrender to the charms of the sublime Liz. But now, shattered by grief, he's decided that she's the only woman who can help with his pain...

You have to laugh at Liz McDonald, don't you? She told all her friends that she couldn't possibly get together with Johnny because he's a married man and he's grieving for his son. She remained strong and decent... right up until the afternoon of Aidan's funeral!

👉 | Annie

I'm very sad that Johnny Connor can't bring himself to be nicer to Jenny. After all, she's lost a child too – in terrible circumstances – and has been doing all she can to support him. Yet when Liz told Johnny that her daughter had died, it was a real moment of bonding for them. I know that Johnny is suffering terrible grief, but there really is no excuse for how he is treating Jenny. He's starting to lose my sympathy!

👉 | Hamza, Leeds

Personally, I'm worried about what Jenny will do when she finds out. Does she still have that black wig she puts on before going out to commit a crime?

Liz has been very bad and needs to worry about the danger of 'a woman scorned'!

👉 | Carley, Swansea

Any story that gives more screen time to Beverley Callard is fine by me. I love her and I love Liz, and she and Johnny have real chemistry. I hope the Connors get Underworld back, because I'd love to see Liz bossing all the factory girls around.

👉 | Cathy, Lincoln

Liz would let them run riot! They'd be knocking off early every day to head to the Rovers.

TOP TOMBOY

Emmerdale's Liv was wearing a really cool white t-shirt with the word 'Tomboy' across the front. My sister would love it! Do you know where it's from, please?

📧 | Jules

If you log on to www.etsy.com and search 'tomboy t-shirt' a whole host of options will pop up. You can pick one up for as little as a tenner!

Can we get a shirt for Daz that reads 'Idiot'?

Is there anybody on the cobbles who hasn't married a murderer?

DEADLY EX

Fiz sympathising with Eileen in Corrie got me to thinking: how many people on the Street have been married to murderers?

📧 | Kelly

There's certainly enough members for a Weatherfield Killers' Wives Club! Eileen had Phelan of course, and Fiz was married to John Stape. Gail was famously married to Richard Hillman, and Carla survived her marriage to Tony Gordon. One other person on the Street with a killer ex is Robert Preston – but nobody seems to remember that Tracy Barlow was responsible for the deaths of three people!

THE BIG.
interview

“We’re going to see Halfway pushed to his limit!”

How far will the kind-hearted bloke go to please his big brother Stuart? EastEnders star Tony Clay gives us the inside story...

It didn't take EastEnders fans long to fall for feckless Callum 'Halfway' Highway. The loveable fella radiates goodness, and has proved to be the perfect boyfriend for unlucky-in-love Whitney Carter. That's why it was such a shock to meet his older brother Stuart, whose volatile, disruptive personality put us on edge from the start. His return to the lives of Halfway and Mick has us scared for their safety – and with good reason. This week, Stuart drags both men further into his twisted version of justice, and it's clearly a dangerous game they are playing. As Inside Soap meets up with Walford's Tony Clay, who has won our hearts as Halfway, he warns us that things are about to get dark...

“Halfway has a good thing going on with the Carters and Whitney, and he doesn't want to jeopardise that,” explains the fan favourite, who only joined EastEnders on New Year's Day this year. “But he looks up to Stuart, and he really wants to make his big brother proud. In this story, the serious side of Halfway will come out, and we'll see him being manipulated by his brother and how that changes him. Stuart usually comes in and takes over, yet this time Halfway was hoping that it could be a new beginning for both of them.”

Stuart wasted little time in messing with pal Mick's marriage and dragging Halfway into his antics, too. But recently,

Carters on the table: Kindly Mick has welcomed Halfway into the family fold

Half-Whit: The dopey fella has won the heart of his old friend Lee's ex-wife shocked Mick has discovered his friend is a paedophile hunter who orchestrates sting operations to confront offenders. Stuart reckons he's no vigilante, though, and claims to only present evidence to the men before handing it over to the police. However, he is still taking the law into his own hands – but what does Halfway make of his sibling delivering street justice?

“He knows what Stuart does, yet Halfway isn't sure if he wants to get involved,” muses Tony. “There's a big part of him that thinks it should be left to the police – but on the other hand, he wants to be involved to prove himself to his brother. He's desperate to get Stuart's validation and respect.”

However, having rebuilt his life in Walford, Halfway has so much to be proud of. He's loved and respected by many, while heavy-drinker Stuart has a failed marriage and a temper. Of course, we've learned that Stuart was abused by a guard while he was in juvenile prison and that's why he entraps sex offenders – but does Halfway know how his relative got into this mess?

“Halfway looks up to Stuart – he really wants to make his big brother proud!”

BAD brothers!

Soap siblings can be a blessing, but these fellas were nothing but a curse...

LEE MAYHEW

Billy was estranged from Lee for years thanks to his drug issues and thieving. He let him back into his life, only for Lee to rob him again – and recently, when Billy slid into his own drugs spiral, it was Lee who scored the hard stuff and blackmailed Billy with it.

"He knows his brother is troubled, but he doesn't know where that's come from," says Tony. "I think that will be the interesting thing to see played out – the reasons why Stuart is the way he is, the secrets he's hiding."

It's certainly an intriguing story, and Tony promises we'll discover more about both Highway brothers as Stuart makes his presence felt.

"We'll begin to learn the reasons why each of them is how they are, and we'll start to see more depth to Halfway and him finding his place," he reveals. "Viewers will get a glimpse of how it was for them both growing up, which will explain why he and Stuart are total opposites. There are more layers to Halfway, and we'll see them as he tries to find his place in the world. We'll also learn how easily Halfway is manipulated by Stuart, and how he reacts to being pushed to the limit by his big brother!"

Just as Stuart messed with Linda and Mick's marriage, we'll see him test the love between Whitney and Halfway. Given how hard they've fought to be together, will they let Stuart wreck their happiness?

"Whitney is almost the voice inside Halfway's head – he knows what he's doing with Stuart isn't him," shares Tony. "She'll think this is not something her boyfriend would do. Halfway feels he has to get involved, but Whit reckons he has nothing to prove to Stuart. She's fallen in love with Halfway because of who he is, and she'll want to protect him and get him away from any danger."

Time will tell if Stuart damages Halfway's happy world – but for Tony, the chance to work with Ricky Champ [aka Stuart] is a dream come true. He and Danny Dyer [Mick] have forged a strong bond with Ricky, and it's delivering great drama.

"Working with Rick is great, and the scenes we've done recently have been amazing," enthuses Tony. "He's an amazing actor and a brilliant person to have around. Rick's always bringing things to the table, and there's really great chemistry between him, Danny and me. It's fascinating to see Danny and Ricky working together."

As Halfway juggles the demands of his brother with his new life at the Queen Vic, it'll be interesting to see if he can hang on to both aspects of his life. Could he do the impossible and broker peace?

"Stuart's thrown a big spanner in the works – but Halfway being Halfway, he just wants everyone to get along," grins Tony. "He thinks he can make it work with Stuart in the mix. We'll witness him trying to get everyone together and see how that goes. But we'll have to wait to find out if he can make it work."

Champ at the bit: Tony is relishing working with screen bro Ricky

ELI DINGLE

Marlon's brother Eli was likeable, but had a dark side too. He got Marlon shot in an armed robbery, kidnapped him, and threatened to throw him off a multi-storey car park – and even helped Debbie hide a body! When he left, Eli took a wad of Marlon's cash with him.

SEAN SLATER

Stacey idolised Sean, but the ex-squaddie was psychotic. He took fellow soldier Al hostage, got with Ruby for her money, and helped Tanya devise her plan to bury Max alive. When Sean found out wife Roxy had lied to him about Amy's paternity, he almost killed them both in a freezing lake.

ROB DONOVAN

Carla helped ex-con Rob rebuild his life – but he repaid her kindness by trying to swindle her out of the factory. They made amends, though it all went wrong when Rob killed Tina, the mistress of Carla's husband Peter. She shopped him to the police, and they remain estranged to this day.

AS CORRIE'S TOYAH TAKES DESPERATE MEASURES TO SAVE HER RELATIONSHIP, CHRIS GASCOYNE EXPLAINS THERE'S NO GOING BACK FOR PETER...

“If there is a self-destruct button anywhere I am sure Peter will find it!” teases Corrie star Chris Gascoyne, as we probe him on how his alter ego

Peter is dealing with discovering the truth about baby Susie. Given all that Peter's been through in the past few weeks, he must be about as close to self-destructing as he can get right now! We're used to the reformed alcoholic being the one lying and cheating, so the fact that the shoe is now on the other foot has been a huge shock to the system for him.

“Peter is totally devastated,” sighs Chris. “Not only has he found out that Susie is not his child, but also that his real baby died and Toyah kept that from him. He's at a loss to know what she was thinking! He is grieving the death of his child, but it is so complex and so hard for him to understand that he's really struggling with it.”

While it's no secret that Inside Soap has never really been in favour of the Peter and Toyah pairing, we didn't want their relationship to end in this much heartache. Toyah's not one to give up without a fight, though, and this week she lures Peter to the pub, supposedly to discuss its sale – when in fact she's trapped him into a counselling session for the pair of them!

Counsellor complaint: Peter is peeved that Toyah has arranged a session with a stranger

"Peter is stunned that Toyah thinks this is something that can be fixed through counselling," reveals Chris. "He thinks she is the one who needs counselling, not him! Peter is not in the headspace where he is ready to talk calmly about any of this."

"The last place Peter wants to be at the moment is playing Mine Host behind the bar with Toyah," adds the actor. "Living at No 1 with his dad is a far more preferable option – which says it all, really! He has come to a decision about what to do with the pub – what Toyah has done has tainted everything for him."

As if dealing with his heartbreak over Toyah's deception isn't tough enough for Peter, his son Simon is also making his life difficult right now. And after the teenager is hauled down to the police station this week following the break-in at the corner shop flat (see p4), Peter is at the end of his tether.

"Peter was aware that Simon was mixing with the wrong crowd, but he thought he had it all sorted out," Chris tells us. "He has taken his eye off the ball. He had a lot on his plate with a baby and

No more talk: Peter no longer has any words for Toyah running the pub, and Simon has suffered as a consequence.

"Peter thinks he has been a good dad recently, but just because he is around doesn't mean he has been present. He's been distracted. Peter blames himself for a lot, and how Simon has turned out is a real source of guilt for him."

It's at times like this that Peter and Toyah should be putting on a united front, and offering Simon a stable home life to get him back on the straight and narrow. So is there really no hope of them reconciling for the sake of the troubled teen?

"I can't see how Peter could ever forgive Toyah," sighs Chris. "They have been through such a lot together and he truly loved her. However, this is another level of betrayal. Peter has done some crazy things in his time, but I think this even transcends anything he has done! What Toyah did was really cruel, and it has made him question whether he even knows his woman at all..."

Sarah Ellis

I can't see how Peter can ever forgive Toyah...

Setting an example: Peter hasn't been there for his son, Simon

HAPPY families!

Chris' real life is a lot less complicated...

With all this friction playing out on screen right now, it's lucky Chris' home life is a hell of a lot calmer! He's been married to actress Caroline Harding since 2002, and is father to Belle and stepdad to Freddie and Pip. And Chris credits his missus with persuading him to return to the cobbles in 2016...

"I was getting under her feet!" he chuckles.

"It was like I was retired or something, and I didn't know what to do with myself. I had a lovely time with Caroline and the family, but it got to a point when she said it was time for me to be Peter in Corrie again. I thought so, too."

“Matty’s arrival is all shock and high emotion!”

Long arm of the law: Cain takes action when he thinks Matty is an intruder

HOW WILL MOIRA REACT TO THE NEWS THAT HER DAUGHTER IS NOW HER SON? NEWCOMER ASH PALMISCIANO TELLS ALL...

It’s always a good soap shock when a parent comes face to face with an estranged son or daughter after years apart. However, Emmerdale’s Moira is about to get the mother of all surprises this week, when she’s reunited with her daughter Hannah – only to find that her little girl is now her son, Matty! Will she accept her boy with open arms, or are there choppy waters ahead? Actor Ash Palmisciano, who plays Matty, warns us that it won’t be smooth sailing...

Matty’s return gets off to a bad start – as the first thing that happens is that Cain punches him out!

Yeah, what an entrance! Matty comes back to the village to get his birth certificate. He ponders knocking on the door and speaking to his mum, but he realises that will be far too awkward. Too much time has gone by. So instead, he breaks into the house when no one’s in. He starts searching for his certificate and it’s not in the drawer he looks in, so he panics. And just when he does find it, Cain taps him on the shoulder!

Does Cain realise who he is?

No, Cain’s convinced he’s connected to Simon, who’s been threatening him. Of course, Matty’s thinking, ‘Don’t you recognise me?’. Then Cain shoves him over a table, and Matty is knocked out. So that’s a nice entrance – unconscious in the first five minutes! Just as Matty comes round, Cain finds the birth certificate on him. Before Matty can worm his way out, Moira enters!

How does his mum react?

At first she thinks Cain has just beaten up a young guy! But then she looks straight at Matty’s face, and realises. A mum always knows what their kid looks like. She says, ‘Hannah? What have you done?’. She’s confused. She knows her child looks different, so she’s completely baffled. Matty’s obviously very emotional – he’s undergone a complete gender change, which is a huge thing to spring on his family. So it’s all shock and high emotion.

Moira is also hurt when she finds out that Matty has been living nearby in Manchester. Do you think they can heal their relationship?

Well, I hope that they do! I think it would be a beautiful story if they did. It’s not an overnight thing, and it’s not easy. Moira feels that Matty’s let her down – not just with the transition bombshell, but also the fact that he’s been living so close. He’s missed so many important things. I mean, Moira’s been through it all this year, hasn’t she? So there’s a lot to talk about!

Tell us more about Matty...

Matty is an amazing character. He’s a cheeky chappy! He’s a people’s person. He wants to please everybody around him. He wants to fit in and to impress. On the surface he’s very happy, energetic and enthusiastic. But underneath, he’s a bit insecure. He’s still finding himself. He has a lot of hope that everything’s going to turn out all right, yet he’s still struggling with being completely confident – like we all are, you know?

What was your first day on set like?

On the outside, I was very confident and bubbly, though inside I was scared. But everyone introduced themselves and made me feel at home. It was better than I could have hoped.

Moira feels that Matty has let her down – he’s missed a lot

What was it like working with Natalie J Robb (Moira) and Jeff Hordley (Cain) for your first scenes?

Amazing! I couldn’t have picked two better people. I really lucked out! They’re both very welcoming and warm. They’re obviously really experienced actors, so to play against them was fantastic. Nat and I clicked straight away in the audition, and Jeff is calm and chilled, which is always good when you feel nervous!

How do you feel to be part of Emmerdale’s first transgender plot?

I think it’s a fantastic opportunity for me personally, but also for the soap to build a groundbreaking character. It’s something new – it’s never been done before. It’s very exciting, and I can’t wait to see what people think of Matty.

Tom Spilsbury

The prodigal son arrives: Moira recognises her child straight away

GETTING TO KNOW YOU!

Ash is excited about life in the village...

As a soap fan himself, Ash is eager to create a stir with the village residents when Matty meets them.

"Definitely!" insists Ash. "I've grown up with the soaps – I've watched them all over the years. Obviously I know all about Emmerdale and the famous Dingles! When I saw that iconic sign and the Woolpack, it was like stepping into the TV!"

"I'm looking forward to working with some classic Emmerdale characters like Zak Dingle," he adds. "That will be fun! I wonder what he'll think of Matty. I'd also like to work with Charity. I just watched the flashback episode, which was fantastic stuff. I'm really excited to work with different people."

KRUPA PATTINI

Hollyoaks' Farrah Maalik

...faces your questions!

Hollyoaks psychologist Farrah is used to delving deep into people's minds – but how will star Krupa deal with us probing her with your tricky questions?

“How's being part of the Maaliks?”

It's amazing – I absolutely love it. Because you work quite closely, you do get protective of each other, even though you're not a real family. It's really fun to be a part of that little unit, and I like the playful banter that we have going on.

“Is Farrah somebody you would be friends with in real life?”

Yeah, definitely. She's nice and normal, and I think she'd be a loyal friend. When I first started, they wanted her to be a role model, and I was worried that might be a bit boring. Luckily, she's had a lot of drama going on, but she's always tried to do the right thing. Ultimately, she's flawed just like everybody else – and she has plenty to say for herself!

“How do other roles compare to being in Hollyoaks?”

“You've had small roles in EastEnders and Emmerdale. How do they compare to being in Hollyoaks?”

They're so different! Those parts were very brief – I played a doctor in EastEnders and a carer in Emmerdale, so they were functional roles. It was an amazing experience to be there for the day, but it doesn't really compare because Farrah is a fully fledged character, and that's a lot more fulfilling as an actor. It's nice having my own story to tell rather than serving someone else's.

“Which of your on-screen family is most like their character?”

I think Harvey Viridi [who plays Misbah] is like her character – she's really caring and quite protective of us. She just thinks we're her babies! But there are similarities across the board. You end up playing a version of yourself in soap, more so than in anything else, because you work so fast.

“What was the best thing about working on TV show Citizen Khan?”

The best thing about Citizen Khan was getting to play comedy. And also playing in front of a live studio audience was great. It was really nerve-wracking, though, and it didn't matter how much we had rehearsed, it always terrified me. There was an added pressure of wanting to deliver on the night, because you don't want the audience to have to stay there while you go again and again.

Ell of a time: Krupa shares a dressing room with Sophie Porley among others

Connect the Dot: Krupa played a GP helping the Square stalwart with her eyesight

Tattoo'll do nicely, Krupa has come around to the idea of getting inked in real life

"Have you been recognised much by Hollyoaks fans?"

I have. You get loads of different reactions – some people will just scream at you and run away, which is really weird! And then other times people will just come over and say "Hey". That's confusing because I think I must know them too, but then I realise they recognise me from Hollyoaks!

"How did you feel about cutting off your hair to play Farrah?"

It was really exciting. I was fed up with my hair anyway, and I had a job just before where I'd been really girly and had a chance to do all these funky hairstyles. So I was ready for the chop! It's been a bit of an adjustment, but now I'm used to it, and I'm starting to have a lot of fun with my short hair.

"I really loved the scenes of Farrah facing off with killer Ryan Knight. What were they like to film, and were you ever a Blue fan?"

Yes, I was a big Blue fan! But it was completely different because it didn't feel like Duncan from Blue, it was just this lovely actor Duncan. So I really enjoyed it. I loved how tense the scenes were, and how high the stakes were. I felt like I could completely give my all, which was so much fun.

"What did you do to celebrate your first episode of Hollyoaks?"

I was so nervous that I just watched it on my own in the Hollyoaks green room! I really struggle with seeing myself on screen, though

All rise: Krupa loved acting alongside Duncan from Blue

Family matters: Krupa gets on famously with the fellow Maaliks

"Do you have Maalik nights out?"

of course, everyone was really supportive.

"Who do you share a dressing room with at Hollyoaks?"

I share a room with Sophie Porley [Ellie], Amy Conachan [Courtney], Harvey Viridi and Lizzie Stavrou [Roxy]! We've just had all of our dressing rooms redone, so I haven't had the chance to hang out in there much yet. We normally just chill in the green room between scenes, and chat or be on our phones. Nothing too glamorous!

"Do you have Maalik nights out?"

We try to, but we've only managed one meal in the year that we've been a family! We always talk about going out for people's birthdays, but then someone will have football, and some people live further away, so organising it is difficult. We always want to do something, though!

"Farrah has a lot of tattoos. Do you have any in real life?"

No, they're all painted on for Farrah. I've always worried that people would be less likely to employ me for acting jobs if I had tattoos. But since playing Farrah, it's made me think more about getting one as I love hers. Maybe I should put a call out on Instagram and see if anyone has a suggestion for me!

“Ethan misses the signs that something is wrong with Alicia”

CASUALTY'S GEORGE RAINSFORD RECKONS THAT ETHAN IS BEING A TERRIBLE FRIEND RIGHT NOW...

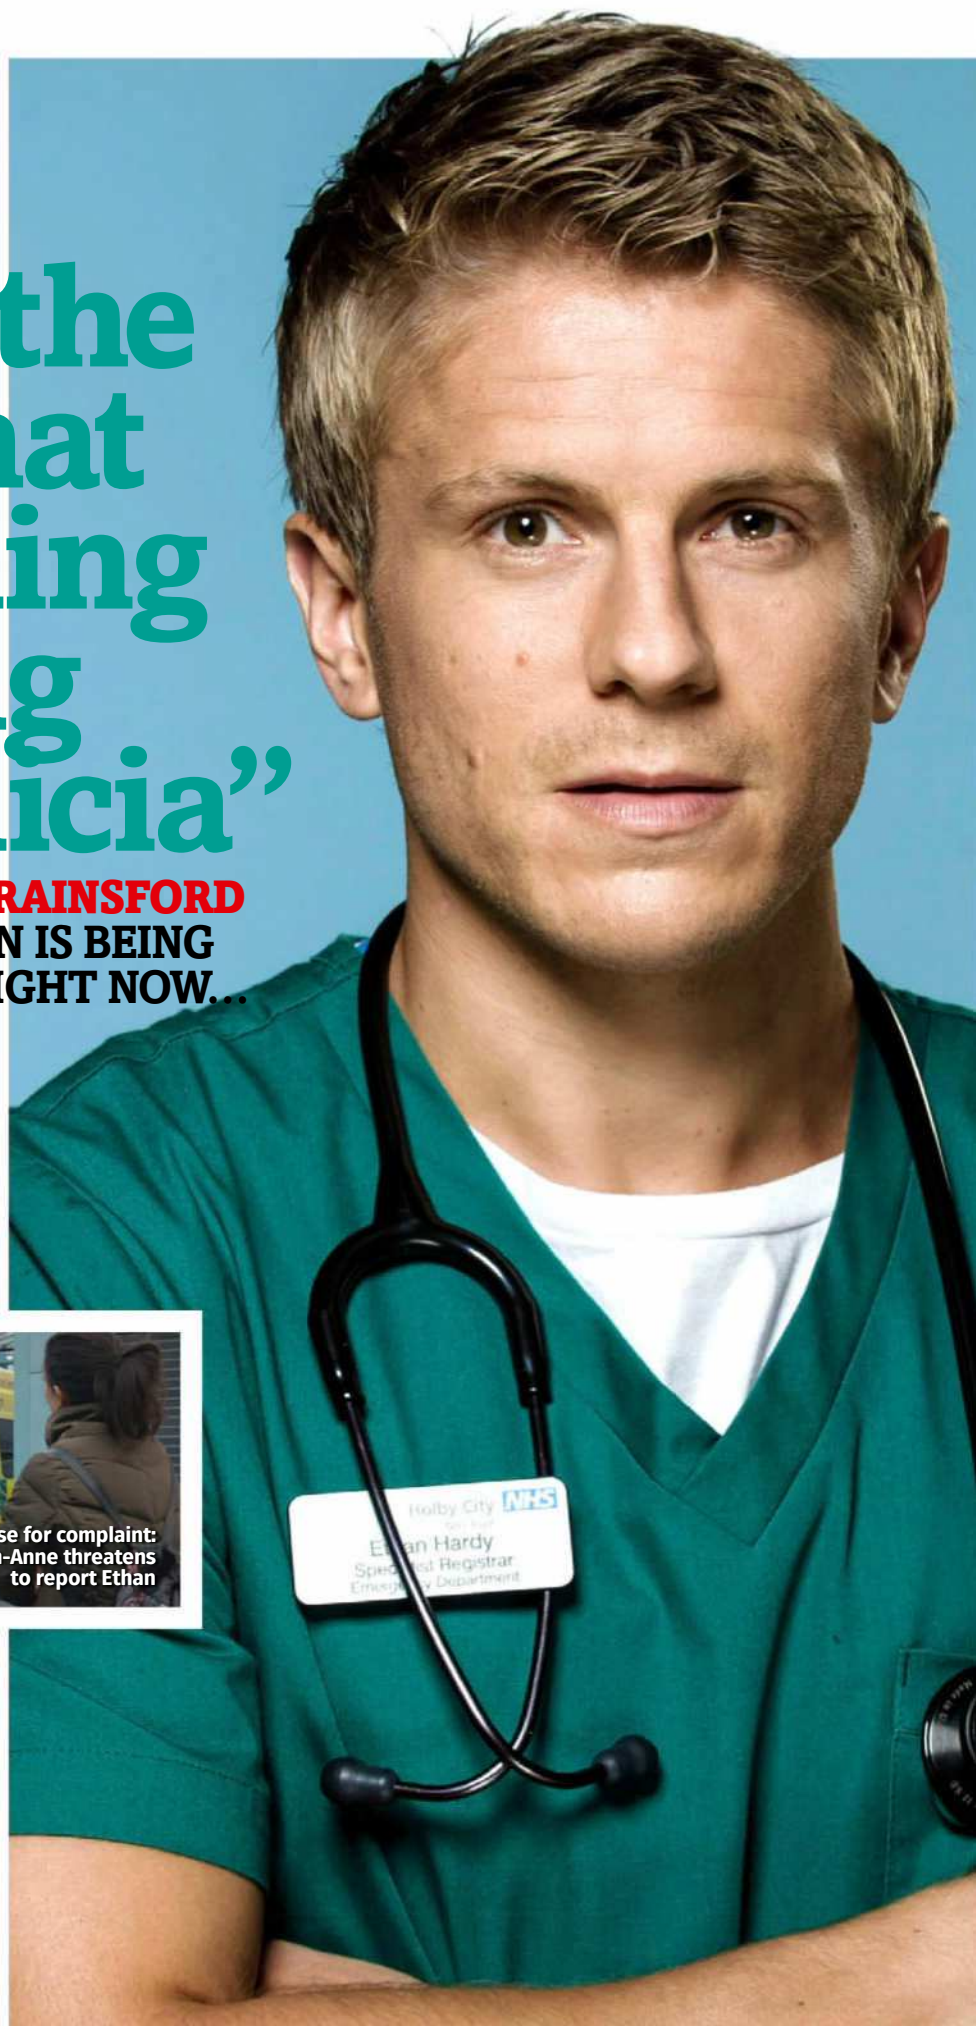

As long-time viewers of soaps, we're used to watching 'will-they-won't-they?' romances playing out on our screens. But the continuing saga between Ethan and Alicia in Casualty has rumbled on for so long that Inside Soap has almost destroyed the office telly by continually throwing stuff at it in frustration (tip: it's better to throw cushions than remotes)!

“That's the trouble with these continuing dramas – as soon as you put two people together, there's no conflict any more,” explains George Rainsford, who plays Ethan. “There's never a straightforward way of making a relationship work! It has been really fun to play, though, and I do thoroughly enjoy working with Chelsea [Halfpenny, who plays Alicia].”

As we settle in for a natter with George, he admits that sadly this week's drama is set to drive Ethan and Alicia even further apart...

Cause for complaint: Leigh-Anne threatens to report Ethan

We know that Ethan loves Alicia – however, he’s found himself sidetracked by Leigh-Anne recently. How does he feel about her?

Their relationship came off the back of Ethan feeling guilty about what happened with Leigh-Anne’s ex-boyfriend, Scott – but there is genuine affection there. Ethan and Leigh-Anne are two lost souls who have a mutual understanding of each other’s grief. But what happened between them is completely inappropriate.

Ethan has tried to let down Leigh-Anne gently, but she’s refusing to take no for an answer...

That’s right. I think she’s had time to assess the situation, and really feels aggrieved that she’s been treated like this. She can see it’s bad ethics on a doctor’s part to take advantage of someone who’s vulnerable. But I think that it’s more about the fact that she has genuine feelings for Ethan.

Leigh-Anne turns up in the ED this week and threatens to make a complaint about Ethan! How does he deal with that?

He wants to address it straight away and speak to her – he thinks that if he apologises, he can get through to Leigh-Anne, rather than allowing her to destroy his job. Alicia doesn’t believe he can sort this out himself, though, so she takes over. She basically stands up for him and saves his skin.

But Alicia must be pretty upset when she realises that Ethan has been seeing Leigh-Anne...

It’s unfortunate timing. Alicia and Ethan almost declared their feelings for each other again recently – but then Ethan had to resolve the thing with Leigh-Anne, which pushed Alicia towards Eddie. And we know what happened between them wasn’t good. So this is just another thing for Alicia to take on emotionally, when she’s already dealing with so much.

There’s a nice heart-to-heart between the two of them at the end of this episode. What can you tell us about that?

It’s a difficult storyline in many ways, because while the viewers know what’s happened to Alicia, Ethan misses all the signposts that something serious is going on. He’s just so wrapped up in his own worries that he doesn’t manage to see what’s happening before him. So instead of allowing Alicia to open up to him about her experience with Eddie, he ends up confessing to her about what happened with Scott.

Ethan needs to get back to being empathetic and caring

Ethan at odds: The doctor is in a bad place – but Alicia is troubled too

How do you reckon Ethan will react when he finds out what Alicia has been through?

That’s a while off yet. But I think Ethan will eventually realise that he needs to turn all this stuff that’s happened to him into something positive, and helping to heal Alicia could be a good start. He needs to get back to where he was before, which was being incredibly empathetic and caring for people.

Is there still a chance for Ethan and Alicia? Or is it too late?

I would like to think that there is still a chance for them. Chelsea and I have certainly invested a lot into this story, so I really hope that they can make it work at some point!

JOB SWAP

Ethan will be popping up in Holby...

Just like many Casualty stars before him, George has filmed a cameo for sister show Holby City, which will be on screen later this summer...

“It’s just for one episode – I’m the guest lead,” enthuses George. “There’s a big story running in Holby with Professor Gaskell doing all these tests, so Ethan sees it as a chance to do some research on his Huntington’s diagnosis. “It was a really fun couple of days of filming, and I know the fans enjoy the crossovers,” he adds. “It’s not always easy to co-ordinate, but there is talk of doing more. There are even rumblings of a full Casualty@Holby City-style episode happening again, which would be very good!”

10 totally true FACTS about... Patrick Mower

YOUR InsideSoap BRIEFING ON THE MAN BEHIND EMMERDALE'S RODNEY...

1 Patrick Archibald Shaw was born in Oxford on 12 September 1938 – although because his birth wasn't registered, for many years he believed that he was born in 1940. Patrick didn't originally consider a career in acting, initially training as an engineering draughtsman at the Cowley plant of Pressed Steel Company Ltd. But he later enrolled at RADA, and was soon a familiar face on our television screens...

3 In real life, Patrick's first marriage was to his childhood sweetheart Audrey Giles, with whom he had a son, Simon (born 1964), and a daughter, Claudia (born 1968). After his marriage to Audrey ended, Patrick enjoyed a seven-year relationship with actress Suzanne Danielle in the early 1980s. In 1996, he tied the knot with second wife Anya Pope, who is 28 years his junior. The pair now live in Louth in Lincolnshire, and have one son together, Maxim, who was born in 1998.

2 Patrick first turned up in Emmerdale as businessman Rodney Blackstock in 2000. Introduced as the ex-husband of Diane (Elizabeth Estensen) and absent father of Bernice (Samantha Giles), Rodney wasn't exactly given a warm welcome when he swanned back into their lives after so many years. However, he soon settled into village life and created a stir by dating barmaid Louise, who was half his age! Since then, Rodney's been joined in the Dales by daughter Nicola, and has struggled with his difficult relationship with gay son Paul.

4 Patrick came very close to playing one of cinema's greatest characters – James Bond! When Sean Connery was considering hanging up his tuxedo in the late-1960s, Patrick was asked by iconic film producer Harry Saltzman if he'd be up for taking on the role of agent 007. Patrick met up with the casting directors no fewer than eight times, but he told them that as he was just 28, he thought he was far too young to play the part. Oh, Patrick – you could have been Bond!

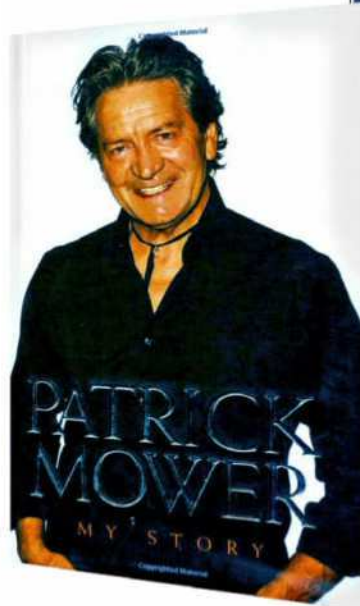

5 Despite that near miss, star Patrick managed to rack up an impressive list of credits during the 70s, making guest appearances in pretty much every popular TV show going. Patrick was no slouch on the big screen, though, as he played roles in Black Beauty, To Catch A Spy and The Devil's Advocate. He even starred in one of the famous Carry On movies – 1976's Carry On England – alongside series favourites such as Joan Sims.

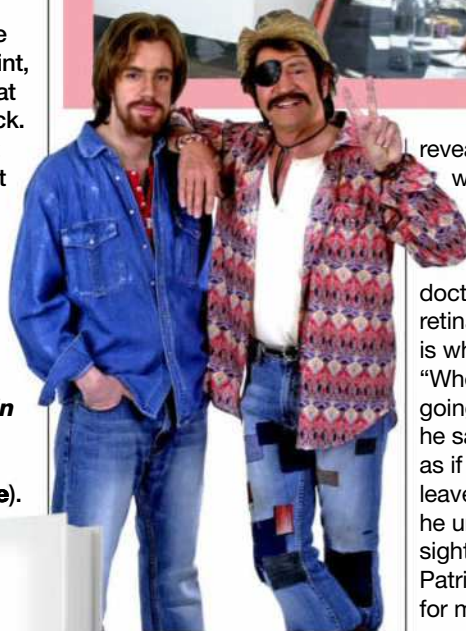

6 Patrick's home is quite the Noah's Ark! "We seem to be getting more and more animals," he admitted. He and his wife own dogs, cats, horses and sheep – and were once stunned when a donkey turned up out of the blue. He said: "We forgot that we'd spoken to this chap who wanted to retire, and said we would look after it!"

7 Patrick is a keen writer and penned his autobiography – Patrick Mower: My Story – in 2007, published by John Blake. It's a juicy read to say the least, and includes details of his many love affairs – such as the time he slept with a model called Robyn, who only revealed afterwards that she used to be man! "At one point, I dated 11 different women at the same time," wrote Patrick. "I had a particular penchant for 'Page 3' girls. It took great dexterity to manage so many affairs, and I finally got caught out." Blimey!

8 Back in 2004, Patrick was on a celebrity edition of Stars In Their Eyes, with his Emmerdale co-star Liam O'Brien (Ethan Blake).

9 He became well known for playing detectives and secret agents on screen in the 1970s, however Patrick also got to try out as a real-life Sherlock! Well, sort of – for three years, he was a regular face on ITV's game show Whodunnit?, hosted by one-time Doctor Who Jon Pertwee. Each week, Patrick and his fellow panellists would interview the suspects after watching a dramatised murder-mystery, before trying to work out who the true culprit was.

revealed that he first became worried his sight was failing when he was playing tennis. When glasses didn't solve the problem, doctors found out he had pre-retinal glial membrane, which is when the retina crinkles up. "When they told me that I was going blind, I was distraught," he said. For a while, it seemed as if Patrick might be forced to leave the Dales, but fortunately he underwent surgery and his sight was saved. So hopefully Patrick will be playing Rodney for many years to come!

Together, the Dales duo performed as legendary 1970s pop group Dr Hook – but they were beaten by Brian Blessed as Luciano Pavarotti!

10 In 2005, Patrick was given the diagnosis that he was going blind! He later

The excited clan managed to take a sweet snap with Disney legend Mickey Mouse – and they weren't the only ones! Meanwhile, cobbles mainstay Samia turned the trip into a fun family event – as she was joined by her eight-year-old daughter Freya, as well as her hubby Sylvain and their son Yves, aged two. JAMIE DEMETRIOU STARS IN A NEW COMEDY ABOUT A DEEPLY INEPT ESTATE AGENT...

It ought to be statistically impossible to be bad at letting flats in London: it's a city where demand outstrips supply, and no matter what ludicrous price you might be charging, there's always someone willing to pay it. And yet here is Stath, the anti-hero of this new comedy, whose work for his family's lettings agency in north London is so thoroughly shambolic that he can't even be trusted to answer the phone...

"He's a shocker," chuckles Jamie Demetriou, who created the series and plays Stath. "When you're showing someone around a flat, it's yours to lose, so you could just stay in silence. He just talks – he'll point at a wall and tell them it's a wall, just in case they were wondering. And assure them that it's not just a wall, it's a 'very nice wall'."

Like all of the best comic characters, Stath is only vaguely aware of his limitations – and he has a tendency to blame them on other people, because it's so much easier than bothering to reflect on his own shortcomings.

"Stath is very easily broken down by anyone around him because he's so thick," explains Jamie. "The only people who he really gets on with are the ones who don't talk back to him. There's a very mild character called Al, who Stath thinks is the nicest guy in the world purely because he doesn't really say anything to him."

In the opening episode, Stath learns that his father is planning to retire – but is outraged when he discovers that his dad doesn't think him capable of taking over the reins at Michael & Eagle. So Stath sets out to let a flat by any means necessary, and isn't above stealing clients from his much more efficient nemesis Carole. But despite his character's general uselessness, Jamie hopes that we'll still find some sympathy for him.

"I think people will root for Stath because he's a muppet," grins the actor. "He's somebody who's clambering for his dad's affection – he definitely wasn't born to be a lettings agent, he just wants to do what his dad does. He's a shyster, but only through his own lack of intelligence – he doesn't think 'I'm going to stitch these people up', he just wants to get the job done. I think he's an underdog – and that's always a useful string to a horrible character's bow!"

“PEOPLE WILL ROOT FOR STATH BECAUSE HE'S A MUPPET”

Sister act

NATASIA DEMETRIOU ON KEEPING IT IN THE FAMILY...

If the chemistry between Stath and his sister Sophie looks very natural in the show, there's a really good reason for that – she's played by Jamie's real-life sister Natasia Demetriou.

"It's an absolute dream come true," Natasia tells Inside TV. "All our home videos are me and Jamie just bossing each other around, trying to do shows. It just feels like we're seven again. I think Jamie and I got into comedy because our favourite thing to do was make each other laugh!"

Sophie dreams of being a dancer and isn't officially employed by the family lettings agency – but is generally expected to help out whenever she's there, which is fairly often...

"She's an absolute idiot," admits Natasia. "A lot of the characters in this are idiots, but she is very thick. She's one of those people who thinks that she's going to 'make it' one day, yet has absolutely nothing to offer. Though I feel like she's a very sweet character – she loves Stath so much, and she loves her dad!"

Comedian Jon Richardson picks his dream viewing...

The Bridge

The Bridge starting again was big news in our house. And I've realised I've had Happy Valley Sky+ed for so long that maybe I'll just never watch it. We live in that area now, so it's just as well I don't associate the streets I walk my daughter down with horrific crimes!

I watch a lot of comedy – I watched James Acaster's Netflix stand-up specials in my dressing room when I was on tour. I sort of obsess over stand-up, and I'm delighted that I still find it funny. Also GameFace, Roisin [Conaty]'s sitcom, that was another show that we sat down together and watched.

A lot of the TV we watch is sort of comedy through documentary – things like First Dates. When you've had a hard day, especially having a young kid, we actually just want to have a laugh for an hour.

James Acaster

When I was a kid, I could recite whole episodes of Bottom. I just used to watch it again and again. I watched a lot of stand-up – the Lee Evans DVD on a loop, Billy Connolly, stuff like that. Once I got out of the Saved By The Bell era, I graduated to comedy straight after that – I don't remember much of a middle ground.

I would love to be a voice in a Pixar film. I really like doing voices, and it's something I don't get to do a lot in my stand-up because I'm too busy complaining and tutting. So a career highlight would be getting flown to America just to do the voice of an incontinent squirrel!

admitting that she didn't give one task her all because she "had one of those cob-ons where I thought 'well...why?'" Liza's approach to the show keeps us on the edge of our seats and is absolute comedy gold. If she doesn't end up as series champion, we'll be lodging a complaint with Ofcom.

MAX BENNETT TELLS US WHAT IT'S LIKE TO BE THE NEW THORN IN ROSS POLDARK'S SIDE...

Ross Poldark's election to Parliament last week was good news for almost everyone – well, the main exception obviously being the previous MP for Truro, George Warleggan. Of course, you can't keep an extremely rich and bitter man down for long, and this week George attempts to buy his way back into Parliament with the help of his new well-connected friend Monk Adderley. With a name like that, he's clearly a wrong'un – and Inside TV chatted to actor Max Bennett, who plays him, to find out more.

What can you tell us about your character?

Monk is very fun – he's a great provocateur, he likes finding out what people's buttons are and pushing them as soon as he can. He's from a similar background to Poldark – he's a military man, and there's Four famous faces will be getting first-hand experience of life on the front line of the NHS in this new two-part series. Jonnie Peacock, Ann Widdecombe, Michael Mosley and Stacey Dooley will be on shift alongside real NHS staff at King's College Hospital in London – and finding out the pressures that our health service faces on a daily basis.

"I was desperate to be involved," Stacey tells us. "I've always been fiercely proud of our NHS and what it stands for. I leapt at the chance."

Each of the celebrities works in a department that they have a personal connection to – so Stacey, who was in hospital as a child with a heart murmur, is deployed in the Heart Attack Centre and the Liver Unit.

a sense in which I think you could see them as two sides of the same coin. He's maybe the dark reflection of Poldark, and I think they both recognise that in each other.

What's his relationship with George like?

They're both characters who use people for their own purposes. So Monk, when he encounters George, sees that he has a lot of money, and Monk is constantly leeching off other people to fund his lavish lifestyle. And in the same way that George needs Monk's influence, Monk's got a lot of powerful friends. It grows into a friendship.

Is he rotten to the core? Or will we see a nicer side to him in time?

It depends what you find the sympathy in! Like I say, he's fun to spend time with, but he's definitely dark.

Will he and Ross clash in the political sphere?

Monk's very rarely in Parliament – he's one of those politicians! But when he is, they rub each other up the wrong way. But Monk enjoys it! It's a dance, really, wherever they are, over a number of episodes...

"I was allowed to witness a liver transplant," recalls Stacey. "I remember thinking, 'My God, they're cutting this guy open, and he's at death's door, but by the end of this he'll have another chance.'"

As for how the patients reacted to seeing stars while they were in their hospital beds, a few of them did end up finding the experience a bit surreal.

"I remember one guy was having a mini heart attack," she shares. "He looked at me and said, 'Are you Stacey Dooley?'. I explained why I was there, and he was like, 'Oh! This is really strange!'"

DR HELEN LAWAL TELLS US ABOUT A NEW MEDICAL QUIZ...

As part of the BBC's season of programmes marking the 70th anniversary of the NHS, some of the country's brightest young medical minds will be taking part in a new quiz this week. Hosted by Jo Brand and with Dr Helen Lawal on hand to explain the medical technicalities, it will test the participants on everything from anatomy to diagnosis skills.

"I guess it's a different take on University Challenge," Helen tells us. "We have two teams of junior doctors from around the country battling it out, and I like to think of it as taking the doctors and the viewers on a journey round the hospital – starting with the waiting room in round one, then into the doctor's surgery to diagnose a patient, picking out various specialist departments and then moving into the operating theatre!"

The contestants are all qualified doctors at the beginning of their careers, and Helen tells us that she was impressed that they were brave enough to apply for a show where they would be tested on their professional skills – especially considering some of the constraints they'd be under.

"The diagnosis round is particularly difficult," she tells us. "It's completely unrealistic to expect someone to diagnose anyone in one minute – but that's the challenge of the show! In reality you'd get at least 10 minutes, and you'd be able to examine the patient, but this was really a test of their medical history-taking skills. They did so well!"

REPORTING TRUMP'S FIRST YEAR: THE FOURTH ESTATE | BBC2 9PM

Sign of the Times

If you've ever wondered how an iconic, internationally renowned publication is put together, you've come to the right place. No, we're not talking about Inside Soap, we're talking about our sister title, The New York Times.

Award-winning filmmaker Liz Garbus was allowed to go behind the scenes at one of America's biggest media outlets during the first 12 months of Donald Trump's presidency. As you can imagine, it makes for eye-opening viewing, given his coining of the term 'fake news' and subsequent attacks on the publication, which he claims is 'failing'. Trump aside (if only), it's a fascinating insight into modern-day journalism and the effects of social media.

THE HANDMAID'S TALE | Channel 4 9PM

Yes, we know, it's extremely uncomfortable viewing at times. But that said, it is one of the best dramas on the box at the moment. Even if that means sometimes we have to watch through our fingers... Protecting Hannah is the most important thing for Offred, and although she's finding it a difficult situation, she's also finding support she didn't count on. Elsewhere, Nick is having problems with the new task he's been given and the Commander prepares for the dedication of a new Red Centre – which obviously spells trouble for a whole new generation of Handmaids...

LOVE ISLAND: AFTERSUN | TV2 10PM

As much as we're enjoying watching Love Island this year, there's one thing we're enjoying even more: having strongly-held opinions about Love Island. Luckily, Caroline Flack will be assembling another group of people who are as unhealthily invested as we are to discuss everything from the latest recoupling scandals to any particularly nice items of beachwear the cast has been sporting.

MARVEL'S AGENTS OF SHIELD | E4 9PM

Tonight's episode features the kind of major clash we'd normally expect to see reserved for a season finale. Ruby presses on with the plan to become Destroyer of Worlds, but a shocking outcome leaves a lot of blood spilled.

HAWAII FIVE-O | Sky One 9PM

A Russian submarine surfaces on the shores of Honolulu in tonight's season finale, causing widespread panic – so the team has to work out what it's doing there. Meanwhile, Tani tells Junior about the gun she found in Adam's house.

INSIDE THE AMERICAN EMBASSY | Channel 4 10PM

American duty

Much gets made of the 'special relationship' between Britain and the United States in global politics, but that relationship requires a lot of maintenance on both sides. This new three-part series follows the diplomats at the US Embassy in London over a nine-month period to see just how delicate that alliance can be, particularly in the age of Trump.

This opening episode focuses on the arrival of the new ambassador, Woody Johnson – a businessman and a friend of Trump's – as he settles into his role and embarks on his brief to use Brexit as a means of promoting the President's 'America First' policy. Meanwhile, Trump's retweet of a British far-right group causes a headache for the press office.

HOW THE NHS CHANGED OUR WORLD | BBC2 7PM

Regional variations

This series of programmes airing across the week examines how groundbreaking treatments were pioneered in British hospitals under the NHS. Later episodes will be looking at the honing of paediatric care and cataract surgery, among others, but this first instalment takes us to Royal Papworth Hospital in Cambridge, one of the UK's leading heart transplant centres.

Dr Giles Yeo will be talking to Sir Terence English, the surgeon who carried out the country's first successful heart transplant, as well as Sandy Law, who is believed to be the world's longest-surviving heart transplant patient.

BEAR'S MISSION WITH WARWICK DAVIS | ITV 9PM

DON'T Miss!

An outside chance

"I feel a bit like I'm on a date and they've stood me up," notes Warwick at the start of this survival special, as he waits for Bear at their agreed meeting point. Or rather, what he thinks is their agreed meeting point: Bear, on the other hand, who's arriving by helicopter (of course), tells us that Warwick's waiting in the wrong place.

It's not the most auspicious of starts, but at least they're in a place Warwick loves – the Lake District, home of many Davis family holidays. But there are no camper vans or tea rooms here: instead, Bear's plan is for them to dine on ants (they're full of vitamin C!) and slide down makeshift zip wires. "Consider it like a death slide!" says Bear, before realising that's a poor choice of words.

DON'T Miss!

OUR GIRL | BBC1 9.10PM

But the longer it takes for help to arrive, the more jittery James is getting – which leads to their safe hiding place becoming compromised, so they have to move on...

JAPAN'S SECRET SHAME | BBC2 9PM

DON'T Miss!

Speaking out

The #MeToo movement gave women an opportunity to talk openly about their experiences of sexual abuse and harassment – in some cases, for the first time.

However, there are still many countries where change is a long way off – like Japan, where sex crimes are rarely discussed, and the country's archaic rape laws make no mention of consent. This means women are expected to prove the use of force or intimidation against them when alleging rape.

In 2017, journalist Shitori Ito shocked Japan by claiming that broadcaster Noriyuki Yamaguchi had raped her. Many didn't believe her, but some hailed her as a hero. In this one-off film, she reveals the repercussions she faced for going public.

GOOD EVENING BRITAIN | ITV 9.15PM

In the aftermath of one of England's most challenging World Cup group stage matches, ITV's breakfast team will be making a special foray into primetime to capture the mood of the nation. (Our bet is that the mood of the nation might be 'Oh for goodness' sake, I thought I was safe from Piers Morgan at this hour'.) Susanna Reid and the windbag beneath her wings will be looking at the night's biggest moments with the help of some special celebrity guests, and they'll also be discussing any major stories that have cropped up during the day.

THE BRIDGE | BBC2 9PM

End of the Saga

So this is it, then: the last-ever episode of The Bridge. After tonight there will be no more small talk in lifts, no more zooming between Denmark and Sweden in a Porsche 911S, no more answering the phone with "Saga Norén, Länskrim Malmö". It's going to be like saying a sad goodbye to a very dear old friend.

We don't want to give away too much about what lies ahead, but we can say that Ida and Julia know who the killer is and they're trying to get in touch with Henrik, who's not at his desk. Saga picks up the message and rushes off to find them, but will she be able to track them down before the killer does? And just when the case seems all wrapped up, there's one last twist...

Narstie but nice

THE BIG NARSTIE SHOW | Channel 4 11.05PM

We can't be the only ones who have become big fans of Grime MC Big Narstie after his recent unforgettable appearance on The Crystal Maze (he brought snacks!), so we're very excited to see what he's got lined up for his very own series. Each week, Narstie and comedian Mo Gilligan will be welcoming celebrities into their world and discussing everything from food to current events. And it's not just the studio audience who will be getting the pleasure of their company either: Big Narstie and Mo will also be heading out into the world to hang out with the unsuspecting public.

GLOW | Netflix

This comedy-drama about a group of misfits making a low-budget all-female wrestling show in the 1980s was one of our favourite shows of last year. We're thrilled to report that its second season enters the ring today – and it's still drop-kickingly great. As a new cast member causes uncertainty in the group, Ruth tries to raise morale by taking the girls off to shoot a title sequence – but will Sam like the result? Meanwhile, Debbie is considering a power play...

IN and OUT

We spin soap's revolving door...

OUT MIKEY NORTH

(Gary Windass, Corrie)

Mikey has revealed he is currently taking a short break from the show. "I have about two months off now," he says. "I'm going to go away and de-Windass for a bit, and then come back and see what's next." But Mikey is keeping himself busy. The actor has been spotted filming for the new series of E4's All Star Driving School in London alongside famous faces including TOWIE's James 'Arg' Argent. Summer

JESSE BIRDSALL
(Steven Fletcher, Hollyoaks)

IN The Eldorado legend, who more recently played uber-villain Fraser Black in Hollyoaks, is heading to Hollyoaks as Fletch's estranged dad. But it seems it's unlikely to be a joyful reunion for father and son, with Fletch banning Steven from seeing his family. Can they resolve their differences? July

HANNAH SPEARRITT
(Kandice Taylor, EastEnders)

IN S Club 7 fans – and EastEnders fans – rejoice! You don't have to wait much longer to see Karen's well-to-do sister Kandice back in Walford, as she'll pop up in the coming weeks. Soon

STEPHANIE DAVIS
(Sinead O'Connor, Hollyoaks)

IN While her sudden exit was controversial after her contract was reportedly terminated due to her off-screen behaviour, Steph can expect a warm welcome by her colleagues – as the soap's 'Godfather' Nick Pickard (Tony) is happy to see her return. "Steph coming back is a good thing for the show," he says. Summer

THE EX FILES!

What are the one-time stars of soap up to now?

DARK AND STORMY!

She certainly had her moments as EastEnders' ice queen Ronnie Mitchell, but Sam Womack has truly gone over to the dark side – revealing a new hair colour recently. And if you've been missing the actress on your screens since Ronnie's wedding day drowning, fear not – she's currently filming for her role in the new series of Silent Witness and was spotted shooting scenes in London alongside star Emilia Fox.

OLD NEIGHBOURS

A new Aussie soap has been announced, and it contains a couple of familiar faces! The Heights will tell the timely tale of residents in a social housing block and their relationship with the rapidly gentrifying community around them. Ex-Neighbours stars Saskia Hampele (Toadie's cousin Georgia Brooks) and Dan Paris (Libby Kennedy's ill-fated husband Drew Kirk) will feature in the cast, but there's no word yet if we'll see the show on UK screens.

PIZZA THE ACTION!

Former Emmerdale star Gemma Atkinson (Carly) has revealed how Strictly Come Dancing star Gorka Marquez won her heart – he got her a pizza at 2am after a boozy Strictly bash! "Who'd have thought a tipsy taxi ride after the Strictly launch party would lead us to where we are now?!" she tweeted.

HITS & MISSES!

WHAT'S HIT THE BULLSEYE RECENTLY – AND WHAT'S FALLEN WIDE OF THE MARK?

How does Weatherfield's surly gang leader Tyler Jefferies instil fear and respect with a haircut like that?

The BBC's version of Love Island is a little lacking in pizzazz.

Mel sits at her desk like she's just about to deliver the news headlines, then introduce Sharon with the weather in your area.

Kim found a way around the police station rules by making a helmet out of her actual hair.

Meanwhile, Sharon's tan is something else. She's almost purple. Where's she been sunning herself? Death Valley? Venus?

BULLSEYE!

The saga of baby Susie has so far been dominated by her real and fake mums Eva and Toyah. But this week, Peter Barlow found out the truth and star Chris Gascoyne really came up with the goods – portraying his character's confusion, grief and anger. While we feel for Toyah, we couldn't help but agree with Peter when he pointed out the true horror of what she'd done, raging: "You selfish bitch!"

We love how understanding Sarah is about Gary accidentally fathering a child with her neighbour. After everything else she's been through, she must think: 'Oh, what the hell.'

We'll never understand Joe Tate... Why live in an old manor house in the middle of beautiful countryside, and decorate it with naff skyscrapers? There's something not right with that boy.

We were impressed to see the latest Hollyoaks ballyhoo has been picked up by the national press. The front page of The Daily Flare, no less. Our favourite read!

To give Jenny a reason to leave town for a little while, we're told that Mavis Wilton has broken her ankle and needs help. Poor Mavis! Forever being flung down the stairs just to help the Corrie storyliners.

Yeah – too much information, thanks.

Soap has a new sweetly smiling face of evil. Step forward Emmerdale's manipulative, patronising, school-skiing, car-stealing, dead-hedgehog-collecting Leanna "Oh, I just couldn't live without my lattes!" Cavanagh.
